I. WORK TO BE DONE

General Description: This revision to the 2005 BAER plan would cover the actual and anticipated costs incurred by the regional fire program staff for continued coordination and technical assistance required to implement the 2005 BAER plan. Although some of these costs were included in the original specifications, the implementation of the 2005 interagency BAER plan requires a substantial time commitment for program coordination, technical assistance and contract administration. Implementation of the BAER plan for FWS involves 6 projects, many of which have multiple components, and the Spring Assessment specification further broadens the scope of the plan. These projects are typically interdisciplinary and involve 6 or more of Alaska's 14 Refuge Field Offices. They also require coordination and consultation with other agencies and Native corporations as many of the projects are also being implemented by other land managers on their lands.
